

Infection Nearly Benched Lolich

First Pro Home Run 'Big Thrill'

By Bob Lana
Gazette Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS — Detroit's Mickey Lolich has evened the World Series at one game apiece, thanks to his own confidence and two pills.

The Tiger left-hander had the Cardinals eating out of his hand Thursday almost the way St. Louis ace Bob Gibson did in the opener.

After the game, Lolich announced he almost missed his turn because of a groin infection he discovered Wednesday night in his hotel room.

"I was almost ready to tell Mayo I couldn't pitch," Mickey said. "I figured I'd be lucky to go six innings and I felt real weak all night. The infection originated from a boil and kept getting worse."

"When I awoke this morning, things felt better and Dr. Clarence Livingood (team physician) gave me a couple of pills before the game that picked me up a little. He called it some kind of a staph infection and said it'd probably be all right to pitch but that I might tire easily."

Lolich didn't tire like he thought he would, but admitted he "was bushed" after the game. Still he allowed the National league champions only six singles while striking out nine in going the route.

Tiger Manager Mayo Smith said, "Mickey was my pitcher all the way. I had talked to Dr. Livingood during batting practice and he gave the okay on him."

Besides winning the game, a thrill which Lolich called "one of the biggest," he also hit one of three Tiger home runs. It was Mickey's first major league homer and the first of his pro baseball career. As a matter of fact, Lolich batted only .111 during the regular season and had collected ONLY four major league extra base hits — three doubles this past season and one triple in 1966.

"You should have seen the reaction of my teammates in the dugout after I hit the homer," Mickey laughed. "Everyone was as stunned as I was. They started agitating Earl Wilson — he's our home run hitting pitcher, you know."

"I knew I had hit the ball well, but I didn't think it went out. I just jumped over first base when I thought Brock had caught it. Then I heard the fans yelling, so I went back, touched the base and went in to the trot!"

Lolich added, "I hit a high fastball — up around my eyes. I was just trying to protect myself. My own best pitch was the slider. I've usually been wild with it, but it was effective today."

Senator Eugene McCarthy, covering the Series for Life magazine, was talking about his baseball days at St. Thomas college in Minnesota.

"I played first base," the senator said, "but didn't play it real well." Then a newsman asked him if he could go to both his left and right at first base.

Slip Cards a Mickey

All Detroit hands extended toward pitcher Mickey Lolich when he entered the dugout after slamming his first major league home run in the third inning against St. Louis Thursday in the second game of the World Series. The blow came off Card pitcher Nelson Briles.

Havlik Scores Lone TD on 2-Yard Smash

Regis Blanks Kennedy, 6-0

By Jack Ogden
Executive Sports Editor

Those "cliff-hangers" are becoming routine in this fall's intra-city football warfare and clutch defensive plays are commonplace.

That was the story again Thursday night at Kingston stadium as a rugged Regis front line throttled Kennedy's attack and handed the Cougars their first defeat of the year in a 6-0 thriller.

The game's only touchdown came with 1:10 to go in the Regis: TD—Steve Havlik (3, run).

First half when Regis fullback Steve Havlik powered over from the two to cap a 90-yard march for the Royals in just 13 plays.

That was the only successful march of the night, although both schools produced their share of big plays.

Regis sub halfback Gary Steger did his share to enliven the proceedings. He nearly broke loose once on a 48-yard run and then later went 60 yards for a touchdown. But a clipping play that did not effect the run nullified the score.

Defensively, Tim McAleer came up with a key interception and a fumble recovery and pulled in one big third down pass. The big play, however, came with 1:48 to go when the Regis line halted Chuck Norton on a fourth and one situation to stop the Cougars' final scoring bid on the Regis 20.

Kennedy had its share, too. Chuck Norton, who picked up 70 yards on 20 carries, nearly broke away twice with his slashing runs. Just before halftime, Mark Votrubeck pulled down a 37-yard pass in Regis territory, but time ran out. The Cougar defense stopped Regis drives twice, once at the 18 and again at the 25, when the Regis bid was shy by inches.

"They've got an awfully good club," said Regis boss Tom Good when the firing ended. "Our defense did a great job. I couldn't point out anyone. It was a real team effort."

"Our kids played hard," conceded Kennedy's Dale Tryon. "But when you can't make a first down with one yard to go and two downs to do it, you don't deserve to win. Regis played a wide-tackle six, but they kept their linebackers in tight and they were loose in the secondary."

"They stopped our running game and kept us from getting the long bomb."

Havlik carried the brunt of the Regis attack with 59 yards in 18 carries, but Steger wound up with 70 yards in five, although he had long yardage canceled by the clip. And another junior, Terry O'Toole, came in to run for 25 in four tries.

Iowa Starts 10 Sophs

By Jack Ogden
Executive Sports Editor

Would you believe 10 sophomores in the starting line — and against Notre Dame?

That's the spot Ray Nagel's Iowa Hawkeyes will find themselves in at Iowa City Saturday when they take to the field before a sellout crowd at 1:30 p.m. against an Irish football squad that is smarting from its nationally televised setback at the hands of Purdue a week ago.

And it's probably no secret to the Irish that they haven't lost back-to-back games since 1963, and never under Coach Ara Parseghian.

Any lingering hope that Eddie Podolak, Iowa's Mr. Everything, would face the Irish was dispelled Thursday when Coach Ray Nagel announced the dandy would not suit up on Saturday. Podolak was released from the hospital Thursday, but re-occurring headaches dating back two weeks to the Hawks' upset of Oregon State ruled out his presence.

That left the job of picking at Notre Dame's questionable pass defense squarely on the shoulders of Cedar Rapids'

Larry Lawrence, one of the 10 sophs Nagel will press into duty on either his offensive or defensive starting lineup.

What hopes the Hawks have of stinging the Irish will depend on the air lanes, since Iowa is also hurting on the ground.

Fullback Tim Sullivan, who suffered a hip pointer in the loss to TCU last Saturday night, has not been able to practice. Nagel did not rule him out entirely, but his starting job will go to soph Tom Wallace, a 203-pounder who is promising but largely unproved.

Hawks' hopes may also hinge considerably on their ability to hold out the Irish pass rush, an area where Purdue was highly successful.

That's the only area where sophs won't dominate for Iowa. With Senior Al Bream and Soph Ray Manning at the ends, the offensive line will include juniors Paul Laaveg, Larry Ely, Jon Meskinen and Melvin Morris, along with senior Greg McManus.

Defensively, Iowa's problems mount. The Hawks will have six sophs starting, including Ray Churchill and Charles Bolden in the sensitive halfback spots.

They'll have the task of containing Notre Dame's great passing duo of quarterback Terry Hanratty and end Jim Seymour.

That's the way it stands, and Nagel explained it this way:

"There's not much I can say about Notre Dame. Everyone knows they have another great team. Our scouting report says they are better than they were a year ago and we didn't slow 'em down much that time."

But, maybe the sophs won't remember that.

Red Peppers

Guest Column by Jack Ogden

A young man with an Italian name, who teaches French and puts in a 14-plus hour working day, doesn't sound too much like an all-American football candidate. But Jerry Campy, head football coach at Cornell college, will give you an argument.

Jerry likes to talk about Joe Campanelli, his six-foot, 185-pound senior end who has been "Mr. Everything" for the Cornell football squad the past two seasons, and whose remarkable pass-catching ability has let the Rams break out on top in the current Midwest conference race.

"Joe is the most bonafied all-American candidate we've ever had," enthuses Clark. "He is a fantastic pass receiver, he does our punting and he plays halfback on defense. Everyone gives him double coverage, but he still catches the passes."

That's the truth, too. Joe, an all-conference selection last year, led Cornell in scoring, (46 points), pass receiving (46 for 688 yards) and punting (38.1). So far this year in two Cornell wins Joe has gathered in five touchdown passes.

"I guess catching passes just came naturally to me," insists Joe. "I don't know that I do anything special, except maybe watch the ball. You have to keep an eye on the ball."

Patterns Help

Campy might have added that a lot of practice helps, too. He started out catching passes as a seventh grader in Carpentersville, Ill., and went on to Dundee high school where he teamed up first with freshman coach Jim Willbrandt and later with teammate Skip Eikleberry. Skip is a former outstanding Cornell passer and had a lot to do with Joe's decision to attend the Mt. Vernon school.

"Coach Willbrandt taught me a lot about pass patterns and I usually spent the summer catching Skip's passes," said Joe. "Of course, the coaches at Cornell, like Paul Maaske, have really helped a lot." Joe's patterns must work, since he's not a speedster. He was timed at 11.8 in the 100 in grid gear.

Campy has about 15 patterns or moves that he uses. "Last year I went down and out mostly. This fall they've been covering me there a lot, so I've been going down and in."

Campy's biggest day came against Monmouth a year ago. "It was quite a thrill. I had nine passes thrown at me and I caught all nine, three for touchdowns and two for extra points."

Cornell faces Monmouth Saturday, so you can guess what the Scots have been practicing this week.

Long, Day

Campy's French and his extra-long days have a lot to do with McKinley junior high in Cedar Rapids, where the Cornell ace is a practice teacher this fall.

He takes three courses in the morning at Cornell, then heads for Cedar Rapids where he teaches French and physical education from 11:20 until 3:10 p.m. It's back to Cornell for football practice at 3:45.

Since Cornell has no athletic aid, Campy then handles a board job from 6 to 7:30, which just leaves time for studying.

Joe must get enough of that in, too, since he carried a three point average a year ago.

French, Too

Campy isn't ignoring pro football, but he'd like to wind up in teaching and coaching.

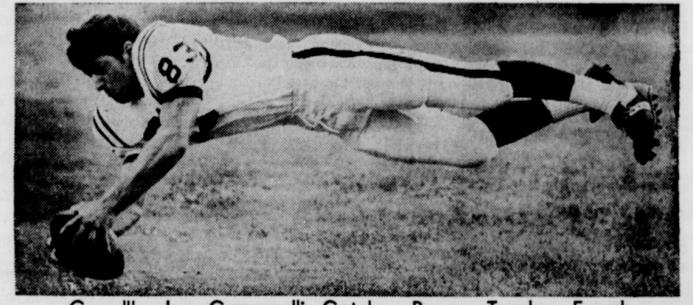

"I guess coaching is what I'd like to do," he admits. "I enjoy teaching French. I took a hitch-hiking tour of Europe during the summer of my sophomore year and that's when I got interested in language."

Joe doesn't think his pro chances are too good, but he could be wrong. A pro scout, representing five different teams, had a visit with him in Cornell this week.

"If I'm drafted, I'd like to give it a try," he admits, "but otherwise it will be coaching and teaching."

Coe Still Seeks First Win of Year

Smarting from two consecutive defeats Coe's football squad travels to a surprisingly strong Carleton in Northfield, Minn., Saturday.

The Carls didn't figure high in pre-season picks, but they jumped into contention by upsetting defending champion Lawrence 8-7. Lawrence had earlier beaten Coe 42-6.

The only bright spots for Coe in its 7-6 loss to Beloit were the performance of the defense and the running of senior Dave Montgomery, who started his first game at tailback. Montgomery averaged 4.2 yards in 17 carries. Coach Glenn Drahn used him so tri-captain George Farrell could concentrate on his "monster" role on defense.

Farrell and tri-captain Paul Beiffuss led a defense that held Beloit without a first down for the first half and to only six in the game. Sophomore defensive stalwarts who played like veterans included halfback Lon Cakerice, and linemen Joe Stalmack and Grant Finnan.

The Coe passing attack, figured to be a strong point, produced only eight completions in 21 attempts, as the offense sputtered near Beloit's 20 yard line no less than five times. Coach Drahn promised his men plenty of work on scoring punch in preparation for Carleton and a return to winning ways.

Norway 9 Advances to State Meet

NORWAY — Norway high school moved within a single step of a fourth straight fall state baseball title here Thursday with an 8-0 victory over St. George of Lansing.

The win brought Bernie Hutchison's crew another district title and moved the squad into the fall state title game next Tuesday afternoon at Boone.

Terry Brecht, who hasn't given up a run in 53 innings this fall, tossed a two-hit shutout at the highly regarded Northeast Iowa team.

And the Norway hitters pounded out 10 off Lansing ace Ken Buege.

Steve Butz and Roger Bodicker led the attack. Butz was two-for-three and scored one run while Bodicker went two-for-four and scored twice.

Don Stump drove in a pair of runs for Norway as the defending champs jumped off to a 7-0 lead in the first three innings. Mel Ward also drove in a pair of runs for Norway.

Comets To Play At Middle Amana

The Cedar Rapids Comets will try to strengthen their hold on second place in the Upper Mississippi Soccer Alliance race Saturday when they play the Waterloo Black Sox at 2 p.m. as part of the Oktoberfest celebration at Middle Amana.

In two previous meetings, the Comets won by 6-3 and tied, 1-1. The Comets' attack again will be guided by player-coach Bob Kauffman, former St. Louis U. star, who will be working with forwards Jan Grant, Luis Saldana and John Bean. The defense will be headed by goalkeeper Steve Lange and fullbacks Hans Mueller and Rick Johnson.

The league match will be preceded at 12:30 p.m. by an exhibition game featuring junior players from Iowa City, Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Walker, Tama and Toledo.

The Iowa-Notre Dame game ... high spot of the football season! Bob Brooks broadcasts it play-by-play from Iowa City at 1:15 p.m. Saturday, KCRG-TV-1600-Radio.

McAleer Picks One Off

Tim McAleer, starting for injured Tim Stephenson, turned in a standout performance Thursday night at Kingston stadium to help Regis top Kennedy, 6-0. Here, McAleer picked off a first quarter pass intended for Kennedy's Mark Votroubek. McAleer came up with a key fumble recovery in the fourth period.

FOOTBALL FORECAST

Egad, friends, this Saturday may well go down in the annals of the 1968 season as "Upset Day!"

The Hoople System sees no less than four upsets of colossal proportions in the offing — um-kumph!

For the youthful Air Force eleven it will be two in a row as they trim the Stanford Indians, 31-28, on the latter's home grounds.

The underdog Syracuse club will prove themselves rude hosts as they eke out a 19-16 win over well-regarded UCLA.

Record: 65-26-7 for 714.

Another big surprise in the East will find West Virginia's Mountaineers rising to new heights as they down powerful Penn State, 34-26!

And now, kiddies, hold on to your seats. The gloom and doom that will pervade California following the defeats of Stanford and UCLA will reach the saturation point as the Miami (Fla.) Hurricanes shock the Southern California Trojans under the lights in Los Angeles Coliseum. We predict Miami will prevail by a two-point margin, 30-28 — har-rumph!

Other contests worthy of special mention pit TCU against Arkansas in a Southwest Conference headliner, and Mississippi and Alabama in a Southeastern classic.

I predict a victory for Texas Christian, 24-22, and a return to the top rung for Old Miss as they repel Alabama, 27-19.

Purdue's Boilermakers, who played the role of "spoilmakers" to perfection as they stunned Notre Dame last Saturday, will continue their winning ways.

Leroy Keyes and his friends will stay in high gear as they roll over undermanned Northwestern by a 33-11 count.

That reminds me, dear readers, I must tell you about Clancy, the die-hard Irish supporter at the Owls Club. Clancy lost a dinner-for-two wager on the N.D.-Purdue game Saturday afternoon, then he lost a luncheon-for-two bet on the TV replay Sunday afternoon — heh-heh!

Arrest 4 More Series Scalpers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Four more persons were arrested for scalping World Series tickets Thursday. Six were arrested during Wednesday's first series game for selling tickets without a license.

Police identified the four as Arthur L. Lee and Richard L. Benbow of St. Louis; Sylvester Frazier of Portland, Ore., and Robert E. Raden of New York City.

Officers said Lee offered to sell three standing room tickets for $15. At the time, standing room tickets were still on sale at the box office at $4 each.

Plainclothes detectives said Raden approached them and asked if they were looking for tickets. They said they were and were led to Benbow, a scorecard vendor. The policemen said Benbow offered them two $12 box seats for $35 each.

Frazier was arrested for offering a $2 bleacher seat for $8, police said.

Cardinals Laud Lolic

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "He's a terrific pitcher," Orlando Cepeda said after Detroit's Mickey Lolich beat the St. Louis Cardinals 8-1 with a convincing six-hit mound performance in the second game of the World Series Thursday.

Cepeda's Cardinal teammate Curt Flood and Manager Red Schoendienst agreed.

"We didn't hit today," Flood said. "He's a real good pitcher. He threw more strikes than the other fellow (31-game winner Denny McLain, who was knocked out of the opening game.)"

"Lolich moves it around a lot. I don't think I got one down the middle all day."

Schoendienst said, "Lolich is good. He fools you. He kept the ball low all day. I don't think he made a mistake."

Pitching was the big differ-

Nelson Briles, who started the second game, gave up three home runs — to Willie Horton, Lolich and Norm Cash — before bowing out in the sixth.

"I gave it all I had, but it wasn't enough," Briles said, adding that all three homers came off his fast ball.

Schoendienst said Briles had control problems for the past month and that that was his downfall Thursday.

"Not that he gives up a lot of walks," Red added. "He just pitches the ball in the wrong places."

Red smiled when asked about the home run Lolich hit off Briles.

"That wasn't even a strike," he said. "The ball was way over his head when he hit it."

The Cards manager added that he still plans to start Briles again in the fifth game.

Trevino 3 Back, but a Contender

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — The smallest stetson this side of Texas said Friday that any time he is three under par after 36 holes you have to take him into consideration.

That was the quiet comment of 28-year-old Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champion from Horizon City, Texas, as he moved into the third round of the 72-hole $200,000 Alcan tournament on Royal Birkdale's 7,140 yard, par-74 links.

Three shots LEE TREVINO off the pace, Trevino was happy about it all.

"Let's see what happens," he said.

Trevino arrived here with a stetson and cowboy boots and admitted they were only a costume.

"The hat doesn't even fit," he said.

How many gallons is it? "Not 10 gallons, maybe not even two," he said.

Leading the field for the $55,000 first prize were two former amateurs, Bobby Cole of South Africa and Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., with 141.

Breathing down their necks was Bob Charles, the left-hander from New Zealand, at 143. And Trevino stood at 144 with 22-year-old Peter Townsend of England.

The American challenge for the big cash prize was diluted by the 145 Gay Brewer of Dallas shot in defense of the title he won a year ago at St. Andrews.

Ailing LaSalle Tests Benton in ECIC Test

An ailing LaSalle high school football squad hopes to hold its forces together long enough Saturday night to meet the challenge of its first East Central Iowa conference game.

The Lancers take on Benton Community in their league debut at 7:45 p.m. Saturday at Kingston stadium.

"It looks like most of our starters will be starting," explained Coach Bill Rosing, "but there is a question about how long they will be able to play."

The two biggest problems are back Bruce Frana and tackle Dan Freeman.

"Frana suffered an ankle injury last week and it has been slow in healing," said Rosing "and Freeman has been sidelined with a thigh bruise."

Then Steve Zamistil, who switched to a halfback last week to fill in for the loss of Mike Fox, suffered an unusual injury Sunday that has left him in doubt. He cut his foot while playing touch football barefoot Sunday afternoon.

LaSalle's defense may be the key, although Rosing feels that club has proved it can also move the ball when it is healthy. The Lancers will be working on seven scoreless quarters when they line up against Benton Community.

Despite the injuries, which include to some extent, the top five backs, Rosing plans to go with the same lineup he used a week ago in defeating Beckman of Dyersville for the second straight Lancer win.

Tom Mraz, who had been moved to fullback earlier, is suffering from a bad knee and quarterback Tim Whitters has been handicapped by a muscle strain in his arm.

First O.J., Now Cats Have To Face Keyes

CHICAGO (AP) — The Big Ten football championship race starts Saturday for six teams while four others continue firing against outsiders with hope of improving on an 8-11 non-conference deficit.

In league action, No. 1 Purdue invades Northwestern, Michigan State is at Wisconsin and Illinois at Indiana.

In other games, Norte Dame, knocked from No. 2 to No. 5 after the 37-22 loss to Purdue, is at Iowa, Navy at Michigan, Wake Forest at Minnesota and Oregon at No. 6 Ohio State.

After facing Southern California's O. J. Simpson last week, Northwestern now has to take another top Heisman Trophy candidate, Purdue's LeRoy Keyes. Simpson's longest run against the Cats' was 15 yards, but he scored three times in a 24-7 USC victory.

Keyes ran for two touchdowns and passed for another against the Irish. Oddsmakers figure Purdue a 21-point choice.

Indiana lost 38-20 last week to Kansas, a team that smashed Illinois 47-7. The Hoosiers got to within 19 yards of the goal line four times only to fumble, have a pass stolen or stall.

In two games, the Indiana defense has yielded 74 points and 836 yards, 540 of them on the ground.

Bob Naponic was able to complete only one pass in another frustrating game for the Illini, who were bounced 44-0 by Missouri last week. Kansas and Missouri gained 854 yards against Illinois, 563 by rushing. Indiana is favored by 15 points.

Michigan State's Spartans, who with Purdue and Ohio State are the Big Ten's only unbeaten teams, have been tested by Syracuse, 14-10, and Baylor, 28-10, and have held foes to a 2.8 yards average per run.

Quarterback Bill Feraco, with a total gain of 373 yards; soph tailback Tommy Love, with 168 in 42 carries, and end-safety Al Brenner gear MSU's attack.

Wisconsin, after a 55-7 trouncing at Arizona State, returned to the synthetic turf of its home field and were nosed out 21-7 by Washington. The Badgers now have a seven-game losing streak stretching from last year.
